A) Description about Wikipedia and its features :

Wikipedia

Wikipedia is a free, open content online encyclopaedia created through the collaborative effort of a community of users known as Wikipedia's.

Anyone registered on the site can create an article for publication; registration is not required to edit articles.

The site's name comes from wiki, a server program that enables anyone to edit Web site content through their Web browser.

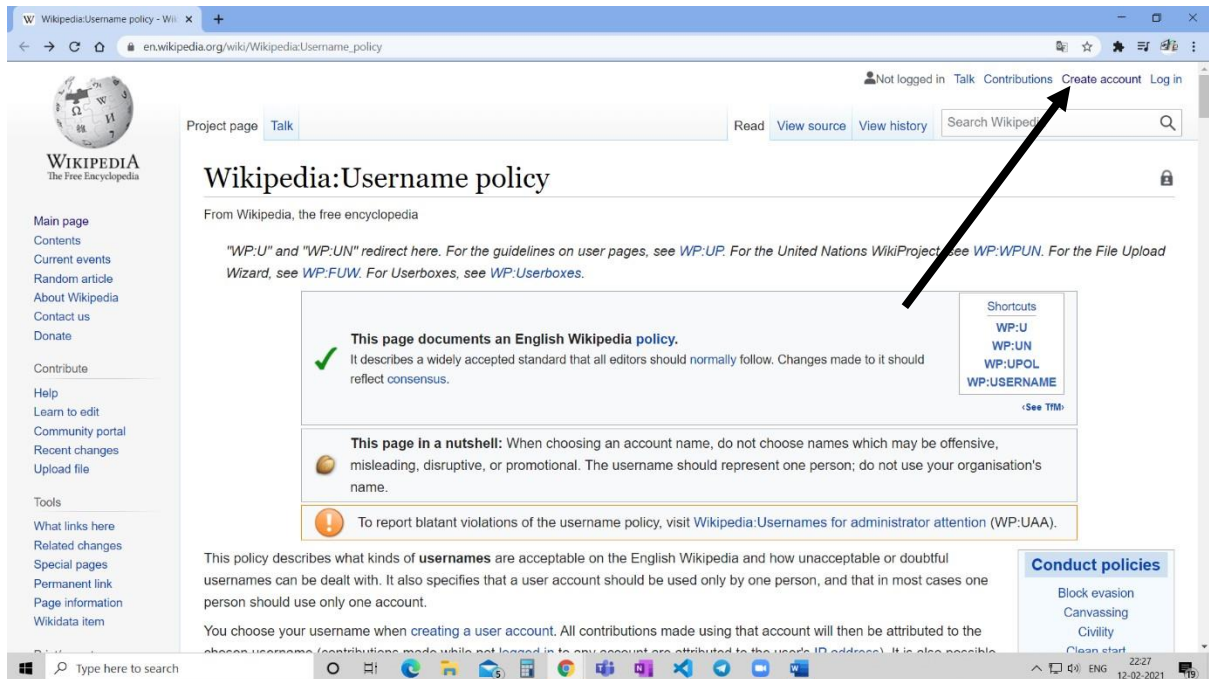

“Jimmy Wales and Larry Sanger co-founded Wikipedia as an offshoot of an earlier encyclopaedia project, Nupedia, in January 2001. Originally, Wikipedia was created to provide content for Nupedia.”

Features of Wikipedia :-

- Create a page. To contribute to a Wiki, you'll start by creating a page. ...
- Edit a page. Published pages can be edited by anyone that reads them. ...
- Link between pages. Linking between Wiki pages makes it easier for readers to find secondary materials they may need, especially as your Wiki grows.

B) Creating Account on Wikipedia :-

Step 1 : Go to the Chrome Browser and Type www.wikipedia.org then Chose your Language and click on Create Account.

Step 2 : Once you click on Create Account fill the all Details , and Read the all instruction Carefully, then click on Create your account

After clicking on Create account this page will come

C) Creating your page on Wikipedia

Step 1:

The screenshot shows the Wikipedia Username policy page. The browser address bar displays the URL: `en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Wikipedia:Username_policy&gettingStartedReturn=true`. The page title is "Wikipedia:Username policy". A yellow arrow points to the search bar in the top right corner. The page content includes a banner for "Wikimedia Wikimeet India 2021!" and a section titled "This page documents an English Wikipedia policy." with a green checkmark icon. Below this, there is a section titled "This page in a nutshell:" with a brown icon, and a section titled "To report blatant violations of the username policy, visit Wikipedia:Usernames for administrator attention (WP:UAA)." with an orange icon. The page also includes a sidebar with links to various Wikipedia pages and a bottom section with a search bar and a "Search" button.

Step 2:

The screenshot shows the Wikipedia search results page for the query "Rajesh Rane". The browser address bar displays the URL: `en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?search=Rajesh+Rane&title=Special%3ASearch&go=Go&rs0=1`. The page title is "Search results". A black arrow points to the "Did you mean: rajesh race" suggestion, which is highlighted with a green box. The page content includes a search bar with the query "Rajesh Rane" and a "Search" button. Below the search bar, there is a section titled "Did you mean: rajesh race" with a green box around the text "ask for it to be created". The page also includes a sidebar with links to various Wikipedia pages and a bottom section with a search bar and a "Search" button.

Welcome to Articles for Creation!

The Articles for Creation (AfC) process is designed to assist any editor create a new page as a draft article, which they can work on and submit for review and feedback when ready. The AfC process must be used by non-registered users and by those who do not yet have sufficient editing experience because these groups of editors are not permitted to create articles directly in Wikipedia's mainspace. The AfC process should also be used by anyone with a conflict of interest.

Writing an encyclopedic article from scratch is not easy. We recommend that you first gain some experience by adding material to articles that already exist, or by helping out with other tasks. You should read the page Help:Your first article to avoid common mistakes and save your hard work from being deleted. In some circumstances, it may be more appropriate to request a simple redirect to an existing article than to try to create a new one.

Creating an article

Before you start writing, here are some things you should have in mind:

- Make sure that the topic is notable enough for an article. Is it already covered in an existing article? If not, there is a very good chance that the topic is not notable and will never be accepted as an article. If yes, have you improved that coverage? Improving existing content is a much more successful way of contributing to Wikipedia.
- Articles should reflect only what reliable sources have said about the topic, and all articles need references to reliable sources.
- If you have a conflict of interest with the topic you are writing about, you should disclose it on the draft's talk page.
- If you are being paid to contribute to Wikipedia, you must—under the Wikimedia Foundation's terms of use—disclose who is paying you, who the client is, and any other relevant affiliation.
- If you have an idea for the title of an article, but no content for the article itself, you can make a suggestion at Wikipedia:Requested articles.

Your article title must have "Draft:" in front of it until it is accepted as an article. To start a new draft, click the button below:

Welcome

Thank you for your interest in contributing to Wikipedia!

Before creating a draft article, you can practice by first editing in your personal sandbox. It's a great way to try out editing without affecting live articles. If you need some help along the way, see our guide to your first article.

Referencing and notability

Your article will be rejected if the topic is not notable, is not referenced properly, or violates copyright.

Copyright

Do not copy-paste or closely paraphrase material from sources. Rather summarize what the source says in your own words.

Notability

The topic of an article must already be covered in reliable sources that are independent of the subject. These include academic journals, books, newspapers, magazines, and websites with a reputation for fact checking. Social media, press releases or corporate/professional profiles do not qualify.

Referencing

- Independent sources (see above) are generally acceptable and should be used before other sources.
- Non-independent sources (like company websites or press releases) can be used to verify basic facts only.
- Blogs, social media, and tabloid journalism are generally not acceptable.

To create a reference, use `<ref>{/ref>` as follows

Bizco was founded in 1942.`<ref>https://www.nytimes.com/bizco</ref>`

More detail on how to cite different types of materials can be found at our introduction to referencing guide

Common mistakes

There are a lot of common mistakes that are made with drafts. Here are a few you must watch out for:

- Writing about yourself or someone/something you're close to
Whether it is yourself, a family member, a friend, an employer, a mentor/business partner, writing about topics close to you (and the people close to you) is discouraged as the article you will create may not be neutral.
- Copy-pasting material
You must write the article in your own words, or it may be deleted.
- Not citing your sources
Articles without independent reliable sources usually get deleted within days.
- Overly promotional language
Terms like "leading expert" and "ground-breaking technology" sound great when promoting a product, but they do not belong on Wikipedia. Let the facts speak for themselves.

Disclosing your relationship with the subject is important in both giving context and transparency with your edits. Additionally, it helps others assist you in making your content more suitable for Wikipedia.

Here are the steps to disclose:

- Edit your user page by clicking here
- Paste the following in the edit box, replacing `Title of your draft` with the article name you wish to create.
`{{UserboxCOI|1=Title of your draft}}`
- Click the "Publish changes" button

You must complete these steps in order to continue.

When having either a business or personal relationship with a subject there are a few things to keep in mind:

- You can request an article
It's improbable when having a conflict of interest to write in a way that doesn't favor the subject unduly. However, you can always request the article be written by someone else. This will prevent you from introducing an intrinsic bias into the article, since a neutral party will be writing the article.
- You can also request edits
Much like requesting a neutral party to make an article for you, you can also request another editor to make an edit on your behalf. More information on how to do so can be found here.
- Stay transparent
Be open about your connection with the subject. There are many editors on Wikipedia, and it's likely you'll interact with them in some way. Being transparent is an integral step in having other editors help you with your article.
